Sanskriti Shah : My favourite person <3, My go to person for literally everything <3. I know that if it weren't for you mere mein thodisi bhi sincerity na hoti :p. You have been always there for me . I am gonna miss those long talks, those gossip sessions :p, and teri pyari awaz <3. Meko apne jaisa khana banana sikhana baaki h <3.

Animesh Singhal : Thank you Debanjali for all the help that you've provided over the years. Ye senti graduation day pe dene ka man tha but who knows ki degree kaise milegi :P

Somansh Chordia : You were the best ED partner I could ask for 😊. I remember we used to divide questions in a way ki ek tough wala mai karunga and baaki ke tu practice karke aayegi and then I used to learn that one question from Akshay 😊. Also thanks for your notes which used to reach us indirectly. Machate raho and all the best for all your future endeavours 😊

Irin Ghosh : Hi Diya, (using your nickname so that people think I know you better!) I can never say this enough, so here I am again. You are the most amazing senior/person on insti (got the B99 reference?). I was so looking forward to meeting you this summer, but this was before 2020 got cancelled. I remember the 4 treats that are pending, and were pending since my freshman year, so at this point you might just as well forgive me XD. My favorite memory with you is you teaching me to sing Megher Palok by Shreya Ghoshal during the JrSc OCSC. Thank you for being an amazing friend/elder sister/mentor. Here is to one of the longest friendships of my life and many more years of this!

Abhinav Jain : Debu! The proof that big wonders come in small packages. Saving the whole group in heat transfer lab, calling out for Navratri pujo, and teaming up against Yash at lunchtimes are some most memorable experiences with you! The most machau person in my friend circle, I am glad to have such a practical, intelligent, and beautiful person like you in my insti life. As you go for your Ph.D. I really expect you to do wonders in life ahead :-D

Bohra Ankit Narendra : Hey Debanjali...3rd year se abhi tak har course ke solutions aapne diye hai. Aapke solutions toh solution manual se bhi better and clear hote hai. Aapke solutions ke bina courses mein band baj jaati. Tumne infi machaya hai...aur aage bhi machati rehna. All the Best for future!!

Yash T Rajan : From not willing to watch a 4 min comedy stand-up on YT, to quoting a reference from a 250-episode long series, is the tiniest of indicators of how we have affected and bettered each other's lives in the past three years. You are that one person jiske saath I have shared everything in my insti life and have unforgettable memories together. This is to Tom and Jerry, to all nighters in study room/lch, to hera pheri, to Zakir Khan, to amazing bday gifts, to sevpuri, to B99 and to many others. All the best for your future endeavours and be the amazing researcher that you strive to be. Hope that aage life mein jab bhi ye handbook kholo, to it makes you reminiscent of the wonderful times we had<3

Abhirup Majumdar : Madam _/_ I am still glad that you came up to me on that day asking me to click your picture (The One Where It All Started). Those Purdue days were the best: the Walmart trips, cooking dinner at your place, and everything. I believe the several events in our insti life and us talking about it really brought us together. I watched you grow into this wonderful, caring, fun, and cool person (Debanjali 2.0) and you helped me to be a better man too. Don't forget this poor guy once you become the famous Dr. Chatterjee. Beer is the best. Maya is actually a polar bear. Alom is handsome. 99!! PS - I have a feeling that I might end up in Purdue

Debanjan Mondal : Hello Didimoni, I must say this is too small a room to write about you. "Hi, can you please click a picture of me?". That's how it started. Who knew, over the years I will click hundreds of those. Well, It was not a smooth journey. Our friendship survived the wounds, and became stronger with each blow. So many outings, and memories much more. We met at a concert and yes, right from Day 0, songs bound us closer. Every song we sang together is so much more than the Facebook post. You don't need my kind words to have a successful career. I will try my best not to say Goodbye, but whatever be the case, just remember, Tor Jonno Always!!

Kinjal Saxena : Bro <3.. My mummy :P.. My music mentor.. I remember our walks, first year mein.. you used to teach me how to sing :P And how patiently you tried to teach me 'Mere dholna' xD.. pehle hi din se I was mesmerized by your mellifluous voice. Yes, I remember how you taught me to make chicken curry! And our video chat from different countries made my birthday soo special!! And how you helped me write my sop when I was going crazy as deadline was near :p.. you've been there humesha. Aise hi gaate reh bro, you're the girl with the Sweetest Voice! .. and keep inspiring people by your sincerity and hardwork! US mein apan milte rahenge.. don't forget me after you get your Nobel Prize for research!

Pokkuluri Mohana Madhumita : Hey Debu! I hope we'll never forget that 'short' nap we had before the meet on Pragya's birthday...I had a good time with you at the Nursery <3 also it was your tiffin box that helped the team survive the sessions! You'll be remembered for your love for Harry Potter, your beautiful way of writing and the sweet voice..hope you keep posting your songs. All the best for your future endeavours!

Your hardwork and dedication is praiseworthy, Its difficult to find someone like you who can sing so well, go to that many outings at the same time manage all other stuff so well. It was fun to hang out with you during first year. Hope we could do similar things again sometime. All the best for your future journey.

I remember being fascinated about how you actively maintained year-old friendships with people (talking about Irin and Debaditya :P). It was quit a lot of fun talking about insti life and acads with you in first year, and the entire Mimamsa was a great experience, from beginning till the end! Good Luck for your future, and stay in touch :)
