Adane Sahil Ravindra : What do I say? I just wish we had started talking earlier. Anyway, I am sure we will make up for that in Pune. I look forward to it. You are a very unique, interesting and simple person, and I love that. I legit feel protective about you. I am sorry that people started picking on you after I started xD 'Are you going to the PPT?' to Neel is your single greatest moment and I am glad I witnessed it live. I am going to make that blog in Pune so you can kiss your efforts at being an internet ghost bye-bye xD Message me once in a while, bitch.

Kenrick Pinto : Mallu boii. We have been good friends since first year. We used to play TT all day and have all those crazy discussions in Kadian's room. Being your roommate in Bangalore was so much fun. We used to plan the 'frugal week', ditch that plan for Mallu snacks and Halal restaurants. I will never forget that trip to Hoggennakal (wink wink). All those cycle rides, especially that last intern day cycle ride was so freaking awesome. I wish we could do that again. Stay in touch man and come to Bangalore sometime. We have go to that Kerala place again. All the best for Pune.

Shanya Anand : Neighbor Bro!! It was really cool to have you as a friend. Dude you are a very resourceful and hard-working guy. From FPGA project to Kunda's presentation to placements you had helped me a lot. Dude I will miss all the late night coding practice, screaming XD, arguments, late night walk, cycling, and irritating you. Btw I'm planning to start a venture with you two years down the line. Hope you will be available.

Edwin Saji Uthuppan : My nigga. You are the one who has faced me being an asshole the most and still are friends with me: You have the purest of hearts man. You are the one with whom cycling is the most fun. Your resourcefulness when it comes to making money just amazes me. You are a practical guy, Mr. Aced Every Interview I Have Given. I know the secret to it: the way you talk about things is so frank and to the point. Dude all your intelligence is, sadly, lost in translation, but your comedic genius is enhanced in translation(unintentionally :P)! I propose a toast: To a Pune-Bangalore-Kochi cycle trip!

Lokananda Hari Vasabhaktula : Never forget left for dead lan parties, lousy TT we played, the cycling trip on the highways. Good times. All the best for your future endeavours.
