2020

Sreyashi Mandal : Hey Kazi! We barely interacted but I have always held a lot of respect for you. Working with you in the genetic switch project was fun. People who are quite are mostly misjudged as arrogant, but honestly, I have never felt such negative vibes from you. There was always some intangible kindness infused mystery about you. And I think that's actually pretty cool. Anyway, wish you all the best for your future. Stay happy. :)

Rumjhum Mukherjee : I can never ever write to you what a blessing of a bhai I've in form of you! You have helped me almost everyday every single semester and I'll always scold you, shout at you and torment you whenever I want, even if it's the dead end of the night! I sometimes wish to have your calm trait, but then I remember that we've always got to talk on your behalf to your future you-know-who! So no, I'm better this way! But you, Khazi, do not ever change! And you already know, my Eid ka biryani is pending! And even if you treat me once, I'll ask you again! R "keep in touch" r katha bole ki hobe? Ami nije e tok perennially jalate thakbo! Excel in everything that you do, like you've always done! May you al

Abhishek Datta : Bhai, you like rock music and you exactly are like rock. Tui etotai chup, Tui toh Neeraja keo har manali. Never thought we will end up being good friends. The political guru #2. Really respect your notes taking capabilities and knowledge. Thank you for letting us in :)

Nilanjan Bose : We have started a new chapter at IITB simultaneously, starting from the marine drive on independence day to the chinese bhel at Shivaji park Durga puja..from fruit rice to "swiggy te offer dichhe"..and the other companion was barnava..we went all the way to dadar frantically searching for a meal..ended up paying 2000 for a heavenly two plates of biryani and chicken..we enjoyed working for ISCP student mentoring..the breakfast table chats..and the sudden visits to his lab where he and barnava were always found..the new addition was saraswati puja and chanda collection..a very focussed guy..and a bright future ahead..
