Anirudh Arputham : Hello Roomie! Literally my best friend on campus and I don't even know where to start about our friendship. I loved every part of knowing you and learning from you (I literally learnt a LOT from you). You definitely made my life in insti an amazing and memorable one. I loved all the conversations and debates we had all night long. Thank you so much for waking me up almost everyday and for having to put up with my endless alarms <3. I loved going on walks with you even though we didn't go on many. You showed me many new things on campus (like the sunset and sunrise). Too bad insti had to end like this but we'll be friends forever (You have to keep in touch, I am not giving you an option) ^_

Abhinav Jain : The very first real interaction that we had, when we (you, me and Anirudh) sat down on mess table to study MA 105 to till now, there have been endless things that we have experienced together. You changed, I changed and so did everyone else but one thing that did not change is our interaction. Thanks for being there for random walks, for letting me use your Facebook :p and for listening to me talking all random shit and then explaining me back how they make sense, for analyzing me through and through and giving an expert opinion on my behavior and sentiments. Thanks man :D let's get on some more random walks in the last year!!!
