

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering
Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Kirtesh Ajay Gadiya : We vanished after doing tutorials and RC Plane in first year. Cheers to that time! All the best in life!

Arjun Varun Yennemadi : I still remember that day of the Writers' club meet. Thanks for such a fun time and also for all the advice you've given me over the years :D

Mudita Rana : Kireeti!! Sustainability course was our common nightmare, I guess :p all those meetings in LCH with the group which ended up with us just discussing everything except our project 😂😂😂 you're a very helpful guy. All the best for everything!!

Lovesh Gupta : I wish I knew you more as a person. I would not be exaggerating when I say that I looked up to you and few others at the start of the tenure. The first proper chat we had was the handling over treat shayad. I was over the clouds seeing you and Kammo in my interview, had a win-win there only. Always stay the witty person you are <3. Hopefully, one day I will catch up with your pool of vocabulary XD. Why have I not asked you for any tips for writing captions already?

Mayank Sultania : Thanks bhai for always helping me... Countless documents you have reviewed. Infi names nikale hai tere 4 saal mein, the representative of whole South India. Late night talks yaad rhega!!!

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering
Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Saman Siddiqui : I know that how close we are to each other can't be expressed in 700 characters and I'm not even going to try! But I want to use this space, to just let you know that I love you to the moon and back and that having you in my life means the world to me <3 See you soon!! Praying that we somehow end up in the same city!

Ashi Gupta : Though not much interaction just in 3rd sem and some wishes on messenger. You are a very helpful and silent person. P.S. this is short as I am not a good writer!

Veerupaksh Singla : Hello Kireeti, or as Ganeshan sir called you, Keerthi! It was great sitting next to you in some lectures, you made them more bearable with your witty comments 😂. Whenever I talked to you, I learned so much. Thanks for being an important part of S1! Wishing you loads of success, stay the same 🙌

Binayak Sahu : Hi wingie, 2nd roommate, lab partner, CoW tour member, slp partner, quiz partner and now colleague. Thanks for helping through out the insti and also after insti help and also helping me to overcome fear from cats. P. S: That bull didn't chased you because of me but because of Aniket.. 🤔

Pranil Joshi : Hey you! We're supposedly too close a pair of friends to be doing this yearbook shit. You're a great friend, and a reliable confidant. We're able to share things with each other that we wouldn't dare to with the world. I remember us effortlessly hitting it off in NSS, then FN, and then in the ed-board. I admire a lot of things about you. Sprinkle a drop of that confidence onto me! I love your creativity and your artistic side. That being said, sorry if I've been too silent for your liking at times, and wayy too expressive (post-midnight xD) at others haha. I hope you go on to achieve all you've ever dreamt of, and more. Always stay in touch!

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering

Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Abhishek Rawat : Kireeti bro one of the best people from S1. Damn gonna miss all those chats we had for hours about the system, Harry Potter or bitching about Department. You were always a fun person to talk to about literally anything and also saviour by giving those awesome printed like notes everytime. Always stay in touch so that we can bitch about the remaining Fantastic Beasts movies xD..

Soham De : I know you dislike gamers but I am simply an awesome person, so you had to be friends with me :p Jokes apart, it was an amazing 2 years from Lab, to post Lab every week discussion, The Karaoke at my room, the random Trivias, our mutual love for Taylor Swift (TayTay as you say :p) , Lit and Insight Club events and parties, The Laxmi Stories and the Loud Singing of us Junta at late night behind Guest House in an inebriated state. I know I made some mistakes as well, but It really feels bad that we all left so suddenly. Best of luck for your future, we will meet I guess in Lit Convo Treat and those RT conversations toh hain hi xD

Sukanya Kudva : Hi Kireeti. Somehow, Telugu never comes naturally in our conversations. Coming from the same city, I always felt we had a lot in common to relate to. Maybe that is also why it has been nice talking to you. And our conversations felt genuine to me. I think the first time I met you was in fresh year when some of us had gone to watch Bahubali. I didnt know you then. I'm glad Insight happened and I got to know you better. Wish you goodluck for your job! Lets keep in touch 😊

R Sucheta : You are one of the few Telugu friends I have and yet we only use Telugu as our code language. XD You are one inseparable part of my insti life, kudos to everything we've gone through together. :) If I start listing everything out, there will be no end I think! We dont catch up much these days, but when we do we create a havoc, you know. :P Aur kya bolun? You are the first insti person I have opened up to. <3 Thanks for everything, lets catch up soon! :')

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering

Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Pokkuluri Mohana Madhumita : HI Kireeti! Thanks for all the plane crash stories you told when we were 'on' the plane and I somehow get reminded of them everytime I board one XD..also that birthday of yours has come to be a surprise to me rather it should have been the other way around :P (I was really excited!). We didn't get to meet much at insti but Bahubali 2 was good .. and Mayank has told me a lot of your insider stuff and for once teach him a telugu song with a good meaning :P Wish you good luck.Stay in touch :)

Devyani Verma : Hello! I am glad I found you a great friend in you even if it was in last year (sem?) Thank you for tolerating all my drama and just supporting me throughout! (I am really not all that perfect, you need to know more of my stories lol) I hope we stay in touch and you can always always talk to me about anything. I am just one call/text away :) PS I hope you get a cute cat soon <3

Ganesh Chelluboyina : Hey Kireeti! I can't recall when we met the first time-our Messenger chat suggests it was sometime in third sem for a lit. club event? Anyways, we really got to connect a year later, thanks to Insight. I truly think your great attention to detail, and support and encouragement you gave me during the biodiversity saga made the whole journey a lot more easier. Thank you so much! The last time we saw each other, we had a long chat in the Kresit parking lot. It's been such a long time already! I hope to see you soon. All the best with everything ahead!😊

Swarali Ghodkhande : Kireeti, the fun we had during CoW and most importantly after that is something I will never forget. From making weekly reports,bitching about Profs to finishing that whole video within one night we have laughed a lot 😂😂😂. You have always been helpful and kind. All the best for your future♥. Btw, that flowsheet uploading is still incomplete..lol😂

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering

Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Karan Trichal : Hey Kireeti! Wow, we've been together in something or the other every year haven't we - lit, MI, Insight :P It's an incredible series of coincidences, and something I'm really thankful for. You're one of the most eager-to-explore people I've ever met in my life, and boy, I'd love to learn that from you. It's been amazing talking to you about everything - from dissing the logo unit to discussing music. Loads of love, and stay in touch! :D

Yashaswini Chauhan : Finding a fellow art enthusiast in the baap board is definitely something I didn't expect! :D You and Apurv pretending to be nosy aunties has been the best thing in this quarantine. Art festival chalte hain next jab bhi possible ho! :D Stay in touch and stay nosy :3

Raghav Goyal : Kireeti man! <3 cat lovers? Its funny how we met on account of saving cats at H4! :) Man you are an amazing person, super helpful, and kind. Thank you for helping me with wendy and others :) and definitely with all the notes, and pre-exam help! Ill miss you man! take care! all the best for everything ahead.

Aniket Bhatia : It all began that one afternoon, thanks to MasterChef. Who would have thought that, that one afternoon could grow into such a beautiful friendship. I remember the times when we'd go on talking for hours and hours and bam its breakfast time. You taught me vocabulary like no other book ever will. Even when we weren't in the same department we'd have sooo much to talk about. I'm gonna miss our little arguments that have lasted for umpteen number of frankies at least. It was all sooo much fun!! It's because of you that I love cats so much!! Wendy says hi too btw! Also you're the one who got me in the world of music. How can I forget when you introduced me to 'Bad Blood'. Love you <3<3

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering

Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Arjav Shah : Hey Kireeti! You were the first friend I had in insti! Vividly remember being seated next to you during the convo orientation and having that typical conversation xD It has been a pleasant experience interacting with you (I wish we'd done that more often) - you're such a soft spoken and composed personality! Won't forget those design project presentations and the entertainment accompanying all of it! Wish you the best with everything and take care! ChEers, Arjav :) PS: Can I please have Pt Chaurasia's edited interview? :P :'(

Aditya Venkatraman : I think our friendship peaked when we sat for 15 hours trying to finish CRE2's never ending assignment. Also the only couple of thoughts in my head for those few hours that you had to kill to go for your interview was how you totally deserved the job and so much more than that and that you should eat something and not go in on an empty stomach xD I know I'm an asshole sometimes, but I guess you're gonna have to deal with it :P Ich vermisste dich und ich hoffe dass wir können mehr zeit einander verbringen K. Freude dich zu kennen <3

Apurv Tiwari : ████████████████████ ████████████████████ ████████████████████ ████████████████████! That's how I pronounce your name, i hope it's right ♥ You are the one who is able to open me up about all sorts of stuff, the one who understands my trivial problems, and also shares the same amount of cringe I feel for a lot of topics. A toast to Sia, to linguistics, to random blabbering about our technical stuff, to having been to two trips on consecutive days to stargazing to French pronunciations to those LAX outings, to lit and to lukkha and to all the 21000 things we have done together, a toast to all. Please never stop standing up for your beliefs, and more power to you for all the important decisions you will take in life! 😊 No adios amigo, pero hast

Tanmay Garg : Hey doc, you are a very special friend broski. After first year, I just kinda felt I wasn't at the same level as you and maybe that's why we kind of drifted away, though our wings being far was the primary season for sure hahaha. I hope we do stay connected and meet up 10 years down the line and find that neither of us have changed 1 bit :p always stay cheerful doc :)

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering
Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Bidish Ghosh : Kiree-boi, didn't we also decide on Ki-write-i at some point in a group xD I remember you and Bharatha participating in the Freshiezza design sprint on behalf of H4; there after we interacted somewhat over Lit sessions before I started laying low somewhat. Iconic was the image of you trudging along on your bicycle to the lectures, and back. Thanks for having my back during Course-on-Wheels, and Techno-Commercial was an amazing learning venture. You're one of the finest chemical engineers I know, and an amazing friend. Cheers, and hope we meet soon :D

Varun Sule : Hey! From finding someone from my wing to go to a book club meet to fawning over TS now, I'm glad for all that came between and everything we have done together in insti. Thanks for always being there to support me, I feel like I haven't appreciated you enough for being a part of my life.

Sigireddi Yamuna Devi : Yooo keyrightea!! How we judged all our tas from D4 XD. And what not have we covered in our discussions , I remember feelings and religion and all telugu dishes... so I guess we covered all other topics too :P. And the biotech team meets and after meet origami sessions (actually we had only 1 ig) were way too much fun (um..I might have exaggerated a bit tho :P) We might have become busy and farther in the later part of our time but I believe we'll always be close as we once were <3

Sharath Chandra Ale : Heyy weird name man!! I know that tu aur priya hi hamara club me kaam kiya, cant say anything about Loya :P Our paths always diverged but had some patches that we often met, talked, bitched did a lotta things without hanging out. A man with so many interests and not a jack but master of all those !

“Today is never too late to be brand new.”

KIREETI AKKUNURI

Chemical Engineering
Insight | Lit Club | BioTech Club

Yearbook
2020

Abhay Tomar : Vaise at first I thought you were very conservative but you came out to be very friendly and amazing person :p. Dont have much to say but thanks for helping everytime I asked for. And ofc machate raho 😂