Rishabh Raj : You haven't yet sent me the photo of us wearing formal suits -_- Jests aside, you are an awesome friend. Extremely affable. Always there to help everyone, even when you are busy with your work. Keep rocking your dance moves. P.S. Learn some more too!! I think now I know more moves than you buddy B) Ahaha. And please sentimental cheeze thoda kam likho, thoda funny cheeze bhi likha karo :P

Mayank Singhal : RC Bro! I am glad to have found a friend like you. Always enthusiastic about doing whatever it is, be it late night walks n talks, movie nights, or coding night. Thanks for making my insti life fun. Still remember that late-night discussion on that "not-so-trivial" thing, which lasted till 4 AM! 😂

Aryan Aryan : Rahull!! You are awesome man! You are good in so many things! Music, tennis (we all know how you became pro in tennis 😄). Not only that, you are very very affable. I've also witnessed how you followed your passion with your best abilities (if you know what I'm talking about)! That's very inspiring! I'm very very thankful that we did that AML project together. Cheers bro! Let's keep in touch!! 😊

Sahil Shah : Our interactions have been pretty much limited to discussing Minor courses and the occasional tennis session, but you're great fun once someone gets to know you. You're always willing to help and extremely knowledgeable on a wide range of topics - academic or otherwise. All the best for all your future endeavours! I am sure that you will achieve all that you wish to!

Neelesh Verma : Rahul boi!! You really are an amazing person and an awesome friend to have. I can't recall if there is a course for which I didn't come to your room for help. I wish we would have discussed more on animes. You were very open to having a discussion on anything and everything. I still remember, me, you and Mayank, having dinner and going through some profiles on Facebook (you had the entire list) ;).

Kumar Saurav : Your first reference was as the guy who managed to get an AP in 207 above Shourya. And then the story continued with you asking a random girl for Salsa - what courage! But the way you talked - so enthusiastic about everything and so polite. You are a humble legend to say the least. Only one other thing to say - it's a mixup sometimes in Bihar, and my last name is actually what most people use. Though you probably already know that and still call me Kumar.

Goru Meher Ritesh Kumar : You are my go-to guy for CS or any other general queries. Most of my minor courses wouldn't be possible if it isn't for your help. You are an excellent tutor. While reading any slides or papers, if I come across something tough, I used to skip them assuming you would explain and you have!! Your enthusiasm amazes me, whatever activity it may be. I thoroughly enjoyed discussing anime, playing badminton and squash with you (I wish we did this from first year). You are such a friendly and humble guy. Let's keep in touch and discuss more and more anime, tv-series :)

Praneeth Edubilli : Hey Rahul, my weird friend. I really wish I had even half of the enthusiasm you had. I really had a great time with you all these years. By the way, thanks for introducing me to tennis. Now, I watch it more than you. If it hadn't been for you, I wouldn't have passed half of my courses. This sudden lockdown has given us no time for a proper send off, but we shall meet someday in future. Have a good day and best of luck on your new job!

Rupesh DNE : Yo bro. Sorry I don't remember the first time I met you, but I think first meetings are overrated. I have known you for a long time now and you are really awesome person to talk to. Be in touch and sorry for ditching the cohesivity. It would be so much fun sharing a work place with you.

Tangirala Pavan Bhargav : Bro!! Always active. Nothing is impossible attitude. Always pondering on something. My only suggestion, stop thinking and just enjoy it. I will always remember all the deep and random talks we had, projects we've done, fun we've had. I know you'll do great in your career.

Sanchit Jain : You are one of the most calm, helpful, daring and simple person I have seen in Insti. Your Acads are unmatched regardless to say. I remember you got AP in Diwan sir's course where we all struggled to pass. Apart from that I remember the day we went for Salsa night and were randomly asking girls on the day itself. I admit that I envy that you found a girl there and I didn't. I have the video of your dance btw. I remember the intellectual discussions we had in mess about everything in life. Also we played lawn tennis on few of the days. Our group projects were lit, last night work mostly. You got the best placement on day 1. A gem of a person you are.

Chaithanya Naik Mude : Broooooooo! Let's do more and more trips like Goa!! Philosophical discussions with you are the best. Huge respect for your way of thinking. Bike rides could have been more fun, if there was more traffic, ikwim 😊 All the best for all future endeavours. Ye bhi deadline pr kar rha hu.. 😊 For Baaki senti baatein, we need to have another trip, ikwim 😊

Syamantak Kumar : Hey Rahul! I guess we interacted the most during our internship. You are a really awesome person man! So talented, and not only academically but on tennis, Anime and even poetry. I really enjoyed philosophical discussions with you and also watching horror movies. The way you remain calm and relaxed and are able to get all the work done in time amazes me. I hope we remain in touch. I'm sure you'll do great whichever way you decide to go :).
