Anmol Kagrecha : True friendships are forged in hell! It is surprising that I had blocked you on WhatsApp in the first sem. Your intellect, independence of thought, and crazy work ethic have always pushed me to improve. My journey at IITB would be incomplete without you. The 3rd year, I loved the 3rd year. Surviving Viru & PCP, nailing APs in controls, internships across the globe, and stress eating at H2 canteen, I couldn't have asked for better memories. Eagerly waiting to share the first beer pint for our successful PhD applications.

Anmol Gupta : Sir! _/_ Very few people are as hyped with productivity as you have been in insti, and for good reason. The number of books you've read along with managing so many courses and your research is mind-boggling really. I still remember our first week in hostel when we went to H-16 terrace to digest the feeling :D. Oh and of course, then being roomies for an entire summer was a great experience! Election sem mein acads bachane ke liye again, a very big thank you :)) And dude, getting a good Ph.D in such competitive field calls for a lot of respect _/_ I wish you the best there!

Yash Sharma : Hey Karan! Thanks for the all the help and guidance this year. Good luck for the future!
