Anurag Dwivedi : Finally you are on yearbook, I was searching you on yearbook from the very beginning. I can remember everything...How we have become the 'friends for each other' from asking you the same physics question daily to sharing almost every memories with each other. To make you feel jealous and uncomfortable especially when we were in trio was very easy for me, after which you started using your phone showing us that you were very busy...hahaha...in H18, after every half an hour , I used to visit your room without any purpose just to bother you. I don't know but I am still very possessive about you. You are a such a careless but mature and good human being. shitttt...words limit reached.

Harishankkar GK : I admire your utmost sincerity in helping others.. and the gentleness that you keep with you, always..thank you so much for that kalsubai trip..that was one of my most memorable moments in IIT life..all the very best for your future!

Sonia Rani : I never realised when I bacame possessive about our friendship but that was for the first time I felt that in my life. It all started from those lab talks. Bitching about mutual DU friends, it was fun. From our competitions of bottoms up to doing chegging together. Going to Dmart every week. Bicycle rides on sameer hill road in study break. You making efforts to uplift my mood whenever I had that v v bad friday meeting with prof. I can always fall to you whenever I feel weak. You stopping me to go to dark places on our night walks because you were so afraid. You never liked wine although you wanted to drink it after watching GOT. I miss those wraps in this time so badly. My favorite person.

Mouli Hazra : Hey my present lab partner... listen..I'm a fan of ur dancing...u r smart...u r stylish..u r notice 😊😊😊... wish u all the best for ur future..bon voyage.. 😊
