Adane Sahil Ravindra : Haha! Wing-mate for life. My first memory will always be coming to your room talking about movies and obviously asking about what Neel did recently. You have listened to a lot of my weird jokes, handwash face-off came to mind now. You do have a lot of patience for my stupidity xD But it has been a lot of fun memories along with important discussions. We basically hungout everyday in yours or Nikhil's room. Btw, thanks for helping with some courses xD Definitely made it so much easier to pass. Always saw you in a horizontal position in your room and I thought I did that a lot. Anyway, good luck! Find time for our video-calls once in a while bitch. Stay in touch.

Edwin Saji Uthuppan : Dude, I have always envied your clean room. Dude, do you remember me throwing my cycle over a tree and losing my phone and telling me that the people who returned my phone were gonna steal my phone (first year coming back from sunny)... You, me and Ibrahim have had so much fun in your room (Ibrahim comes to get away from me and I follow to keep pestering him!). I still hate you for lying to me about netflix. Dude keep in touch and have fun!

Shanya Anand : If I'm correct, my first memory of yours when you came to my room, knocking at my door and started from saying "Aap kya EP se ho..." that struck so much that I've still remembered it aur haan Neel tere peeche chhote bacche ki tarah khada tha. No matter how lame joke I have had crack, no matter how shitty suggestions I had given you had always listened to me, I mean not just me but to every and I really had admired your this ability. And yeah your movie choice is just too good.
