If you could pack up a bunch of things from the institute to keep with you forever, what will those be?

Squirrels. Those cute creatures are always playing on my window panes, has been the best part of my hostel life.

Sujit Chauhan : I never thought we would be friends in the first place. But I am glad we did. When we started working on our paper, initially I felt things would not go great. But I really enjoyed working with you. I remember how I used to annoy you with my silly talks, and how you would stick around hearing me talk about trivial issues. One thing that always fascinated me is how you strictly adhere to mess timings and how you didn't like eating outside. It shows your values and I really appreciate it. I am sure you will make great strides in research and economics in particular. Just hold onto it. and keep dreaming. "Remember, Hope is a good thing, maybe the best of things. And no good thing ever dies"

Shreya Sethi : Hahaha. Those TA Duties and running between rooms never going to forget them. I love the fact that you were always there and excited about it too, your enthusiasm was infectious. Keep it up, it's going to take you places in life. I am going to miss being teamed up with again. :(Just got one chance.
