I used to force u to talk ur plans out because I feel u r the one who follows ur Heart rather than a strategy. And u were clear always what u want to achieve. Keep up the free spirit. And I'll look forward for ur invite to summer camp in ur coming up school.

Lahari Yaddanapudi : Swag! Almost my first friend at IIT, I can never forget the memorable ice-breaking trip we accomplished together (although last :P)! You're fun and always so kind and loving. And I will always admire how you stand up for things that aren't right. You are one person in class I've always looked up to.

Aman Lonare : Yo Swagatika, 'The SWAGOSAURAS'!! You are the one who is always humble and straightforward. These are some of the qualities that I always longed for. I like how you are so determined and passionate about the education and development. It is very rare to find such person in today's society. I hope one day I will find such determination of contributing something to the society and if I did I will surely thank you for that. Always stay the same and be one of my guide. Thanks for everything. Keep Rocking. Best Wishes :)

Vankudothu Surya Prakash Nayak : The best thing is your working for the most vulnerable section of society and ur effort and steps bring a smile on their faces. I am so thankful to you for always responding positively. In first year May almighty with you always. People takes times to understand me. May your goodness flourish further. All the best for your journey.

Aman Srivastava : Thanks Swagatika for initiating this talk and made me to pen up for you. First, I am grateful to you to let me accidentally enter into Sustainability Cell. That phase was truly a groundbreaking for my project management skill. Last and not the least, you influenced my maturity. By your behaviour, I learnt the role of patience while doing project, ownership while experiencing project, and conscientiousness while executing project.
